An enumerative bibliography is a systematic list of books and other works such as journal articles. Bibliographies range from

"works cited" lists at the end of books and articles, to complete and independent publications. A notable example of a complete, independent publication is Gow's A. E. Housman: A Sketch, Together with a List of His Classical Papers (1936).

The historical or traditional roots in moral and political philosophy included making normative or value based statements about how individuals should live good and meaningful lives in good and meaningful societies However, modern political science strives to be less political and more scientific, less prescriptive and more descriptive, less normative and more empirical.
