Social
entrepreneurship is an approach by individuals, groups,
start-up companies or entrepreneurs, in which they develop, fund and implement solutions to social, cultural, or environmental issues. This concept may be applied to a wide range of organizations, which vary in size,

aims, and beliefs. For-profit entrepreneurs

The For-Profit/Not-
For-Profit Distinction.
Among general
hospitals the not-for-profit, voluntary
institutions have long been predominant.

The first hospitals served exclusively as charitable or public organizations for the sick and destitute who had nowhere else to go, but today's not-for-

profit hospitals have diverse origins in the missions of both
religious and secular

The three-sector
model in economics

divides economies into three sectors of activity: extraction of raw materials (), manufacturing (), and service industries which exist to facilitate the transport, distribution and sale of goods produced in the secondary sector ().

The model was developed by Allan Fisher, Colin Clark, and Jean Fourastié in the first half of the 20th century, and is a

under which individuals and cooperative groups

would exchange products with one another on the basis of mutually satisfactory contracts (Proudhon 1840).
